Simurgh.

The mountain Küh-e-Qaf is a place of wisdom and home of the magnificent bird Simurgh, a mythical creature from Persian mythology endowed with supernatural powers. According to legend, some birds once set out to ask Simurgh for advice. Only 30 of the birds made the arduous journey. Each individual stands for a characteristic obstacle on the way to self-knowledge. The story serves the exhibition "Simurgh. Ten female artists from Iran." at Crone as a symbol for the life of Iranians in the diaspora and the current situation in Iran. Works by Iranian women artists living abroad will be on display, including Yalda Afsah, Anahita Razmi and Nooshin Farhid.

WHEN: The exhibition "Simurgh. Ten female artists from Iran." opens on Friday April 28th. It runs until June 17th.

WHERE: Crone , Fasanenstrasse 29, 10719 Berlin.
